

Oak Spring Garden Library

Algae
Collected & Arranged
by
Eliz^a M. French
New- London
1860.

Callithamnion Baileyi
Millstone Gorge
October.

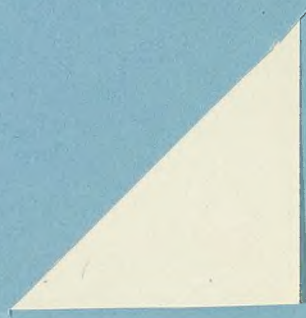

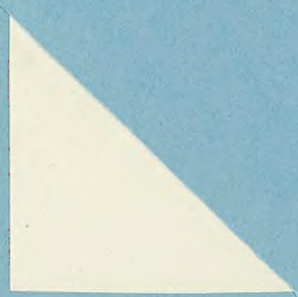

Callithamnion parasita

Polysiphonia formosa

Polysiphonia violacea.
Thames River,
April.

Ceanothus diaphanus.

Thomas River,

Octobr.

Callithamnion parasiticum

Fort. Summerville,
Colo. 1870.

Platysiphonia
near New London Light House
Sept.

Asphragos racemata,

Port. Tricincta

Feb.

Agave americana

Agave americana

Agave americana

Clitoria pinas
Clitoria pinas
Clitoria

Leptopteris sinuosa,
Pine Islands
June.

Polysiphonia variegata.

Thames River,

September.

Physiphonia Clavata

(Larva) Agave

Prunus Linn. 1753.

Callithamnion corymbosum.

Cladophora arctata.
T^{no} Fremont
Marche.

Helipocis ussuriensis L.
Cratichneumon & Chalcidina.

Flowers are we
Of the wild sea
And rocky shore
Borne by the waves
From hidden caves
When storm-clouds lower

Shor sun, nor air,
Shor toil nor care
Our beauty gave;
Far down below
Where young pearls grow
Our garlands wave.

North winds shake
The chill snowflake
Over the wave, -
Our fragile forms
Hide the storms
And tempests brave.

Flowers of earth
Fade at birth
In the summer ray,
And the poet heathen
Over pencilled wreaths
His lettered lay.

But who shall trace
The passing, grieve
And melting, hue
Of Ocean's child
Who treads the wild
Of waters blue!

The artist knew
Where Paphia grew
Of Syrian clime; -
And Ceramias' blush
Hath a brighter flush
For enduring time.

We may bear us far
As the beaming star
From our happy home,
Yet, a smile we give
And our crushed hearts live
Where'er we roam.

Who love to rove
The verdant grove
For nature's sake,
Come and lave
In the sparkling wave,
And a lesson take.

From the coarse and stern
The heart may turn
For beauty's power;
But under the deep
Of the stern and coarse
Lie pearl and flower.

E. H. J.

